Volunteers complete the first phase of the Garden Improvement Project

David's Harp, Open Architecture Collaborative, and the Parkrose Heights Community Garden hosted their first two Garden volunteer build-day events in March. Dozens of volunteers cleared out weeds, yard waste, trash, and decaying landscape fabric, and completed construction on two of the raised garden beds. Together, these improvements ensure the Garden will be accessible to those with limited mobility for the first time. David's Harp would like to thank all the volunteers who assisted, as well as the East Multnomah Soil and Water Conservation District and Northwest Sustainable Wood for providing the building materials for the project. The next build date will be on Saturday, April 13th from 10-3:00.
